CRS has adopted a committee system in an effort to complete its history. [redacted], formerly full 25X1A9a time on the project, retired in July but completed the first section of the paper under a contract arrangement. Eight writers - seven part time staff employees and one annuitant on contract - are preparing individual inputs on the specialized functions of the former Office of Central Reference. [redacted] will coordinate the in- 25X1A9a puts and write the remaining parts of the history, some of which she has already done. The parts of the paper that are now in hand look promising and there finally appears to be a legitimate basis for believing that this history can be completed reasonably soon.
